KAMA SUTRA DOYLE OWL

Want victory sex for obtaining the Doyle Owl from the Battle Royale of nerds over the weekend? The Pamphlette, using a survey of all the ways the Rugby team has had sex with, on top of, and using the Doyle Owl, has compiled a list of the best sex positions involving this concrete idol. Having this Owl as a prop is a sure-fire way to get laid, because NO ONE will turn down having sex using the Doyle Owl. Just remember to take a shower after, because no one has ever turned down having sex using the Doyle Owl in the past, either.

1. Talon Tingle:

Bend partner over Doyle Owl, using its head as a foundation for his/her hands. Proceed from behind, standing up and using his/her body to balance you. In this way, the Owl can support both of you, so that you each can have the equally sick pleasure of defacing such an ancient relic with your sex juices. The strong concrete will also prohibit any unwanted motion or wobbling one would have using soft, normal props, such as a bed or chair, allowing for "scuba-deep penetration".

2. Ga'Hoole Grind:

Have your lady sit on top of the Doyle Owl. Enter her facing forward, so that you are looking both at her and at the face of the statue, thus looking into 2 pairs of eyes at the same time. This heightened sense of being watched will excite you more than normal sex would, and she'll feel comfortable and sturdy on a 300-pound slab of stone. You'll also have the pleasure of fulfilling your fantasy of making sweet love to the Doyle Owl, without really doing it. This way, you can seem relatively normal by fornicating with a human being, when really you didn't look at her the whole time.

3. Concrete Canoodle:

Have male sit on top of Owl. Next, have female sit on top of male partner, balancing on top of both the Owl and companion, creating a terrifying Jenga-like position. If you can actually accomplish this, you are a professional acrobat. But what will most likely happen is that one of you will lose your balance and you'll both fall off, injuring a body part and causing the Doyle Owl to topple over and shatter into a million pieces.

4. In Ca"Hoots":

Form a circle with your unspecified sports team friends. Proceed to circle jerk around the Doyle Owl, aiming for the eyes or beak. The benefits of having the Owl in the middle is that you have something to stare at during this awkward encounter, rather than closing your eyes and praying it all will end soon. Whoever hits the right eye of the Doyle Owl wins, and gets to move on to Tip #5.

5. Flying Solo:

The most common way of having sex using the Doyle Owl alone. This is pretty much a free-for-all, and since no one's watching, you can take as little time as you need. Whether standing up or lying down, the Doyle Owl alone has the benefits of never criticizing your form or crying afterwards.

Candidates who receive our endorsement will have the full support of the most influential and respected publication on campus and between three and five votes from the Pamphlette writers (all five of us will intend to vote for you but some of us might forget to vote). In order to receive our endorsement, the candidates must bribe us either with money or bribe us with a favor as specified below: potential Quest Boards must sign a pledge to print an old Pamphlette article from our archive in each issue of The Quest in order to preserve institutional memory and let the student of today

Individual candidates who would like our endorsement should sign a pledge to advocate for our right to get student body funds to buy snacks at meetings and it has to be enough funds to buy fancy snacks because we have sophisticated tastes.
